

You know
what that guy's nickname is?

How should I know that?
C'mon, man.
Just tell me already.

Humanity's weakest weapon.

...Weakest?
Not something like, the ultimate weapon?

Dude, that's the nickname for
the rank S Hunter Choi Jong-In.
That kid is

the 'weakest weapon'.
I'm pretty sure he's the weakest Hunter in the Republic of Korea.

I can hear everything, you geezers.

Why would other Hunters greet this Seong Jin-Woo if he was really that weak? After all, didn't they need someone to trust their backs if things went south?

Eii! The raids Seong Jin-Woo participates in will only have low difficulty because he's so weak. The Association would never entrust him with a tough job, don't you get that? They don't want to see him get killed, right?

At times like today, I couldn't help but blame my unusually-acute sense of hearing.

Can I get a cup of coffee as well?

Oh. Seong Jin-Woo Hunter-nim... I'm really sorry, but we ran out of coffee just now.

Why do you persist on being a Hunter, Mister Seong Jin-Woo?

I'm sorry.

I'm not trying to get you to apologise, you know? I'm only worried about you.

If you continue fighting this way, the way, sooner or later you'll be faced with a truly dangerous situation.

A dozen-plus Hunters were taking care of the monsters inside this dungeon without so much as breaking a sweat.

Unfortunately, for a rank E, such a feat was nearly impossible.

Perchance, is there a reason why you can't give up being a Hunter?

I'm only doing this as a hobby. If I don't do this, I'll probably die of boredom, actually.

He didn't want to reveal anything personal to other people.

If you continue on with this hobby of yours, soon you'd be raiding a dungeon in the netherworld, you know?

Where did you even learn to say stuff like that?

Ah, ahh!! Don't laugh! Don't! Your injuries might get worse!!

Aigoo, that ahjussi really went and did it, didn't he....

I only killed a single monster today. A rank E creature, no less.

The lowest grade magic crystal from a rank E monster fetched less than hundred thousand won. For something he bet his life to earn, it was a pathetically small amount.

A magic crystal from a rank C monster can sell for over ten million won, though...

Too bad, a rank E Hunter such as himself couldn't even attempt to kill a monster with a rank as high as C.

Uh? Hey, there's another entrance over here.

Huh, it's true.

There really is another path?

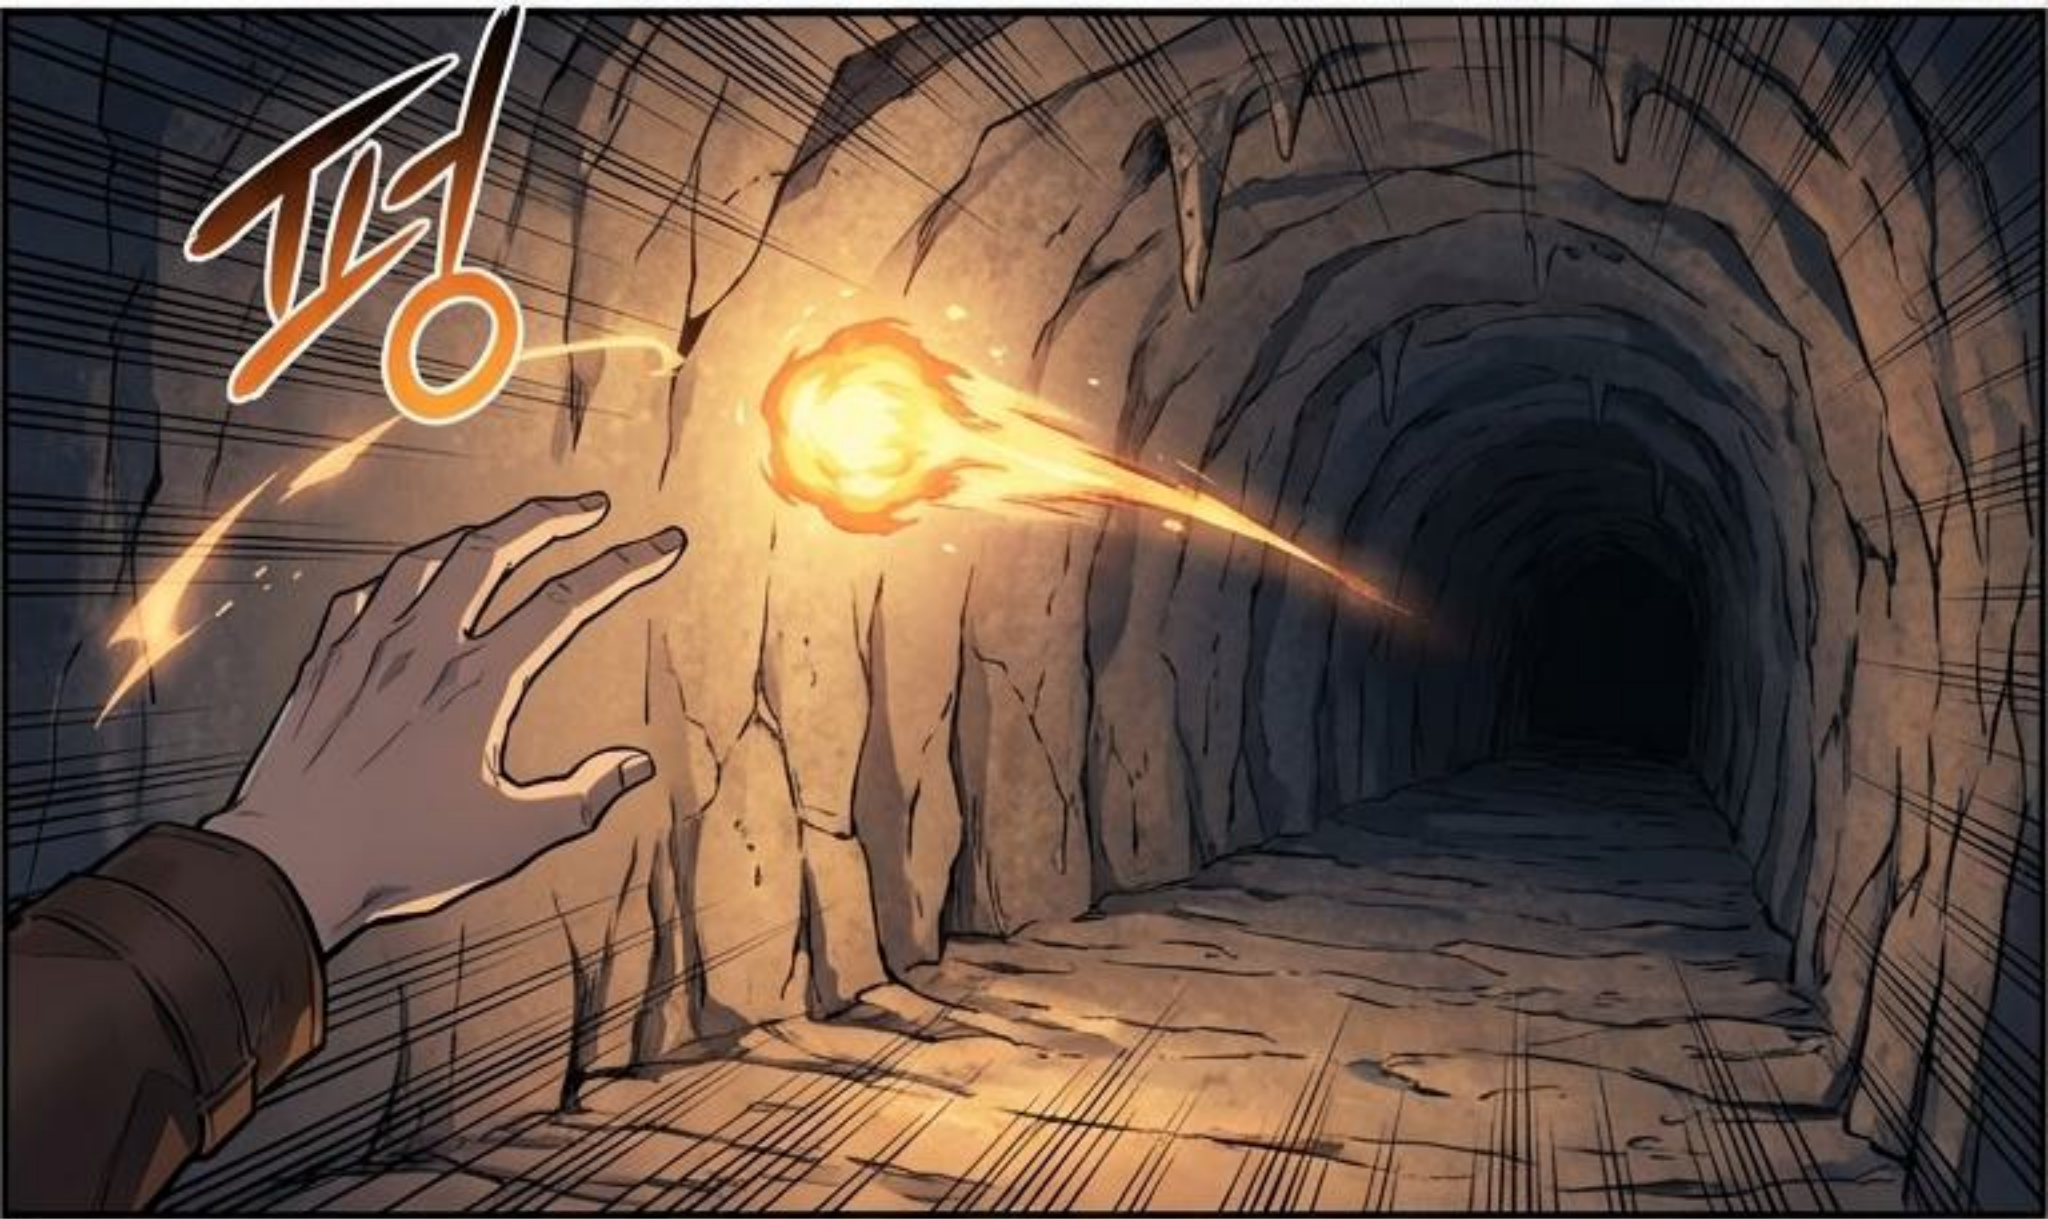

A dual dungeon, is it... So, such a thing actually exists for real....

Possessing over ten years' experience as a Hunter.

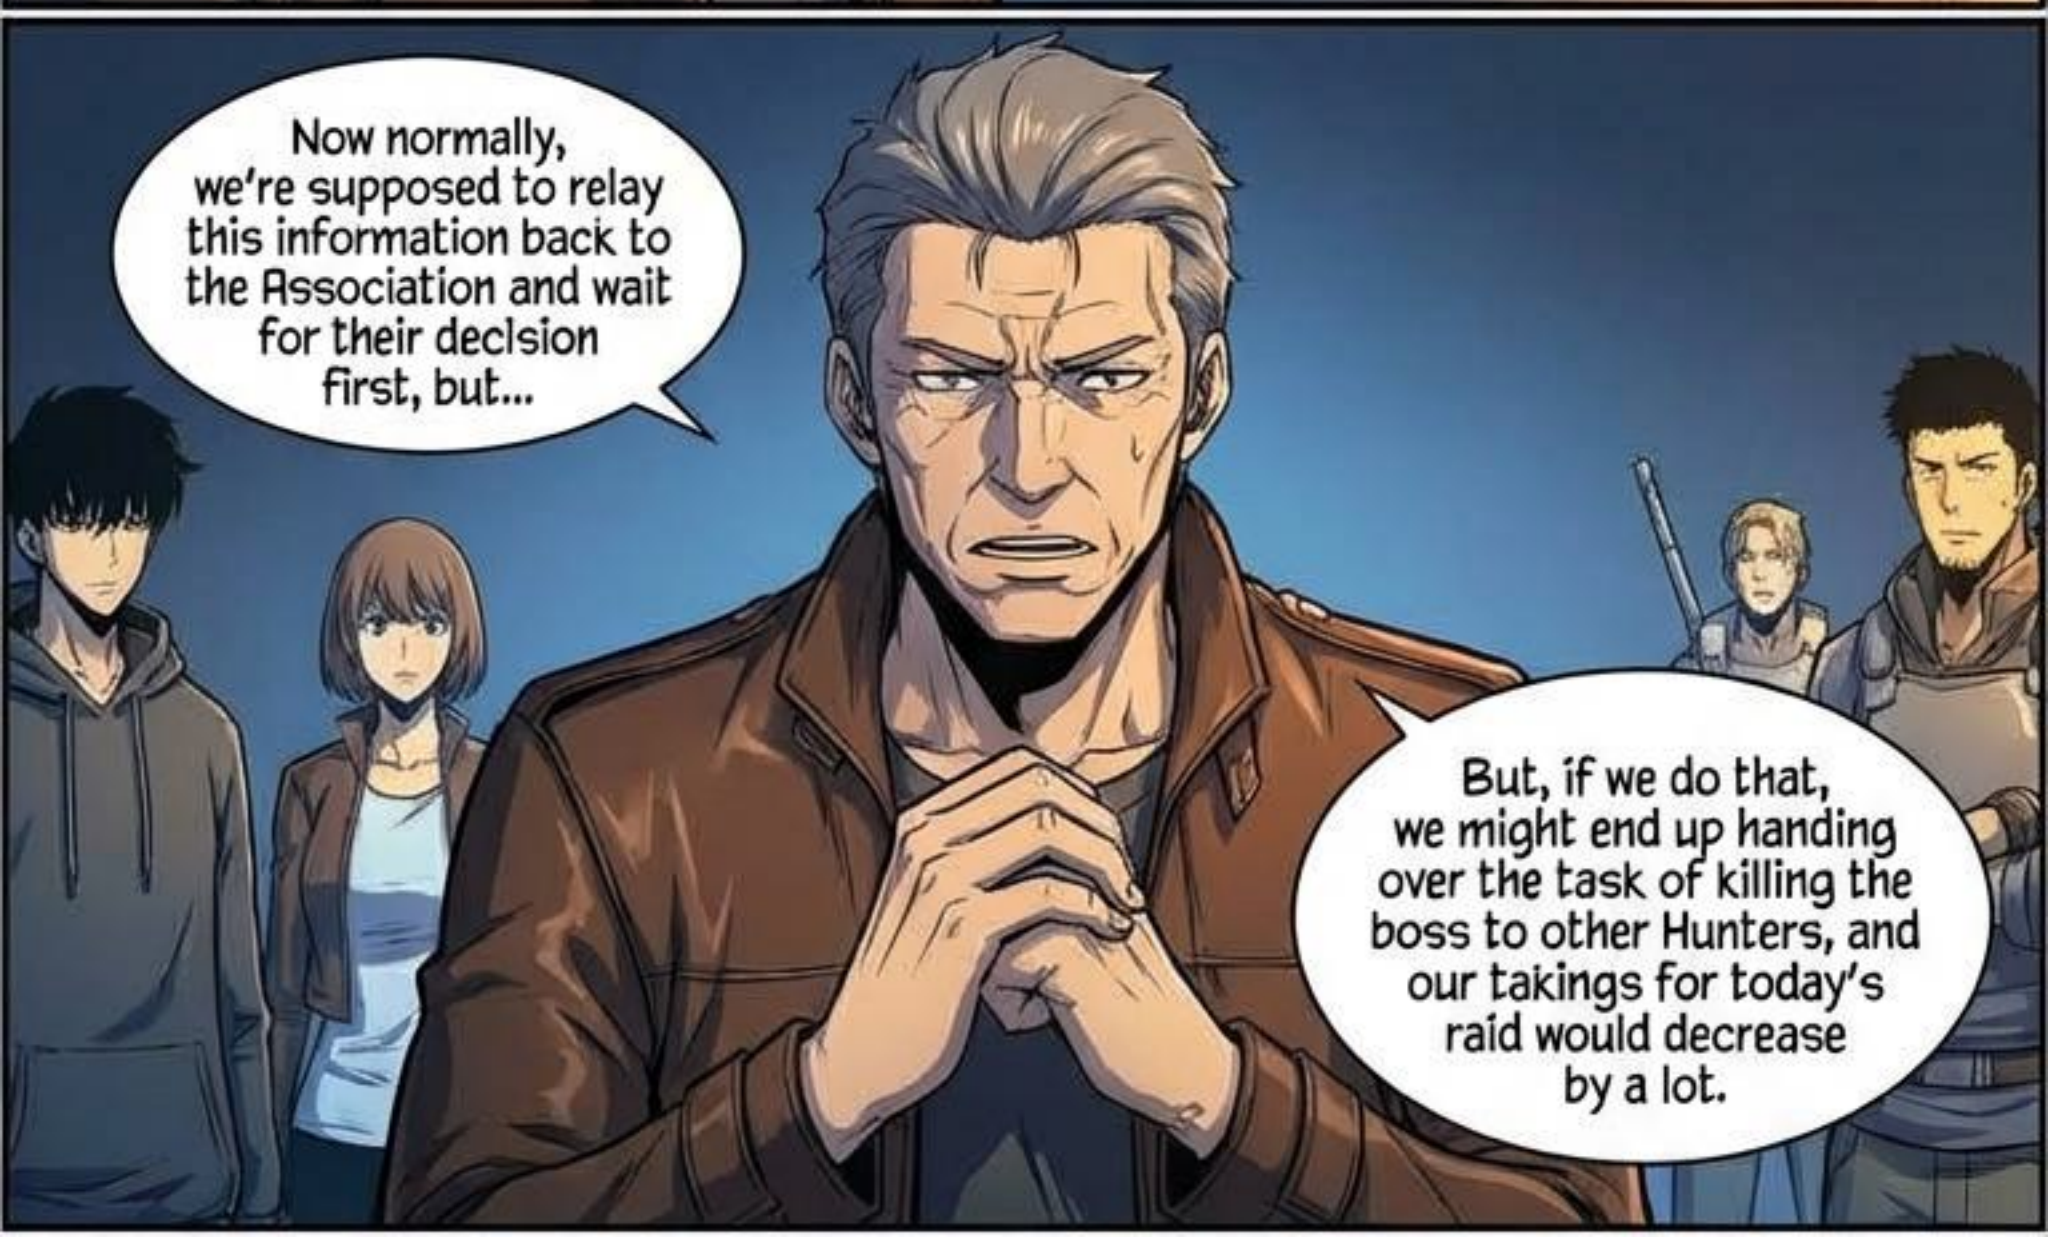

As you know very well, a Gate will not close unless the dungeon's boss is killed. Since the Gate itself is still intact even though we took care of all the monsters here, that can only mean that the boss is beyond that passageway.

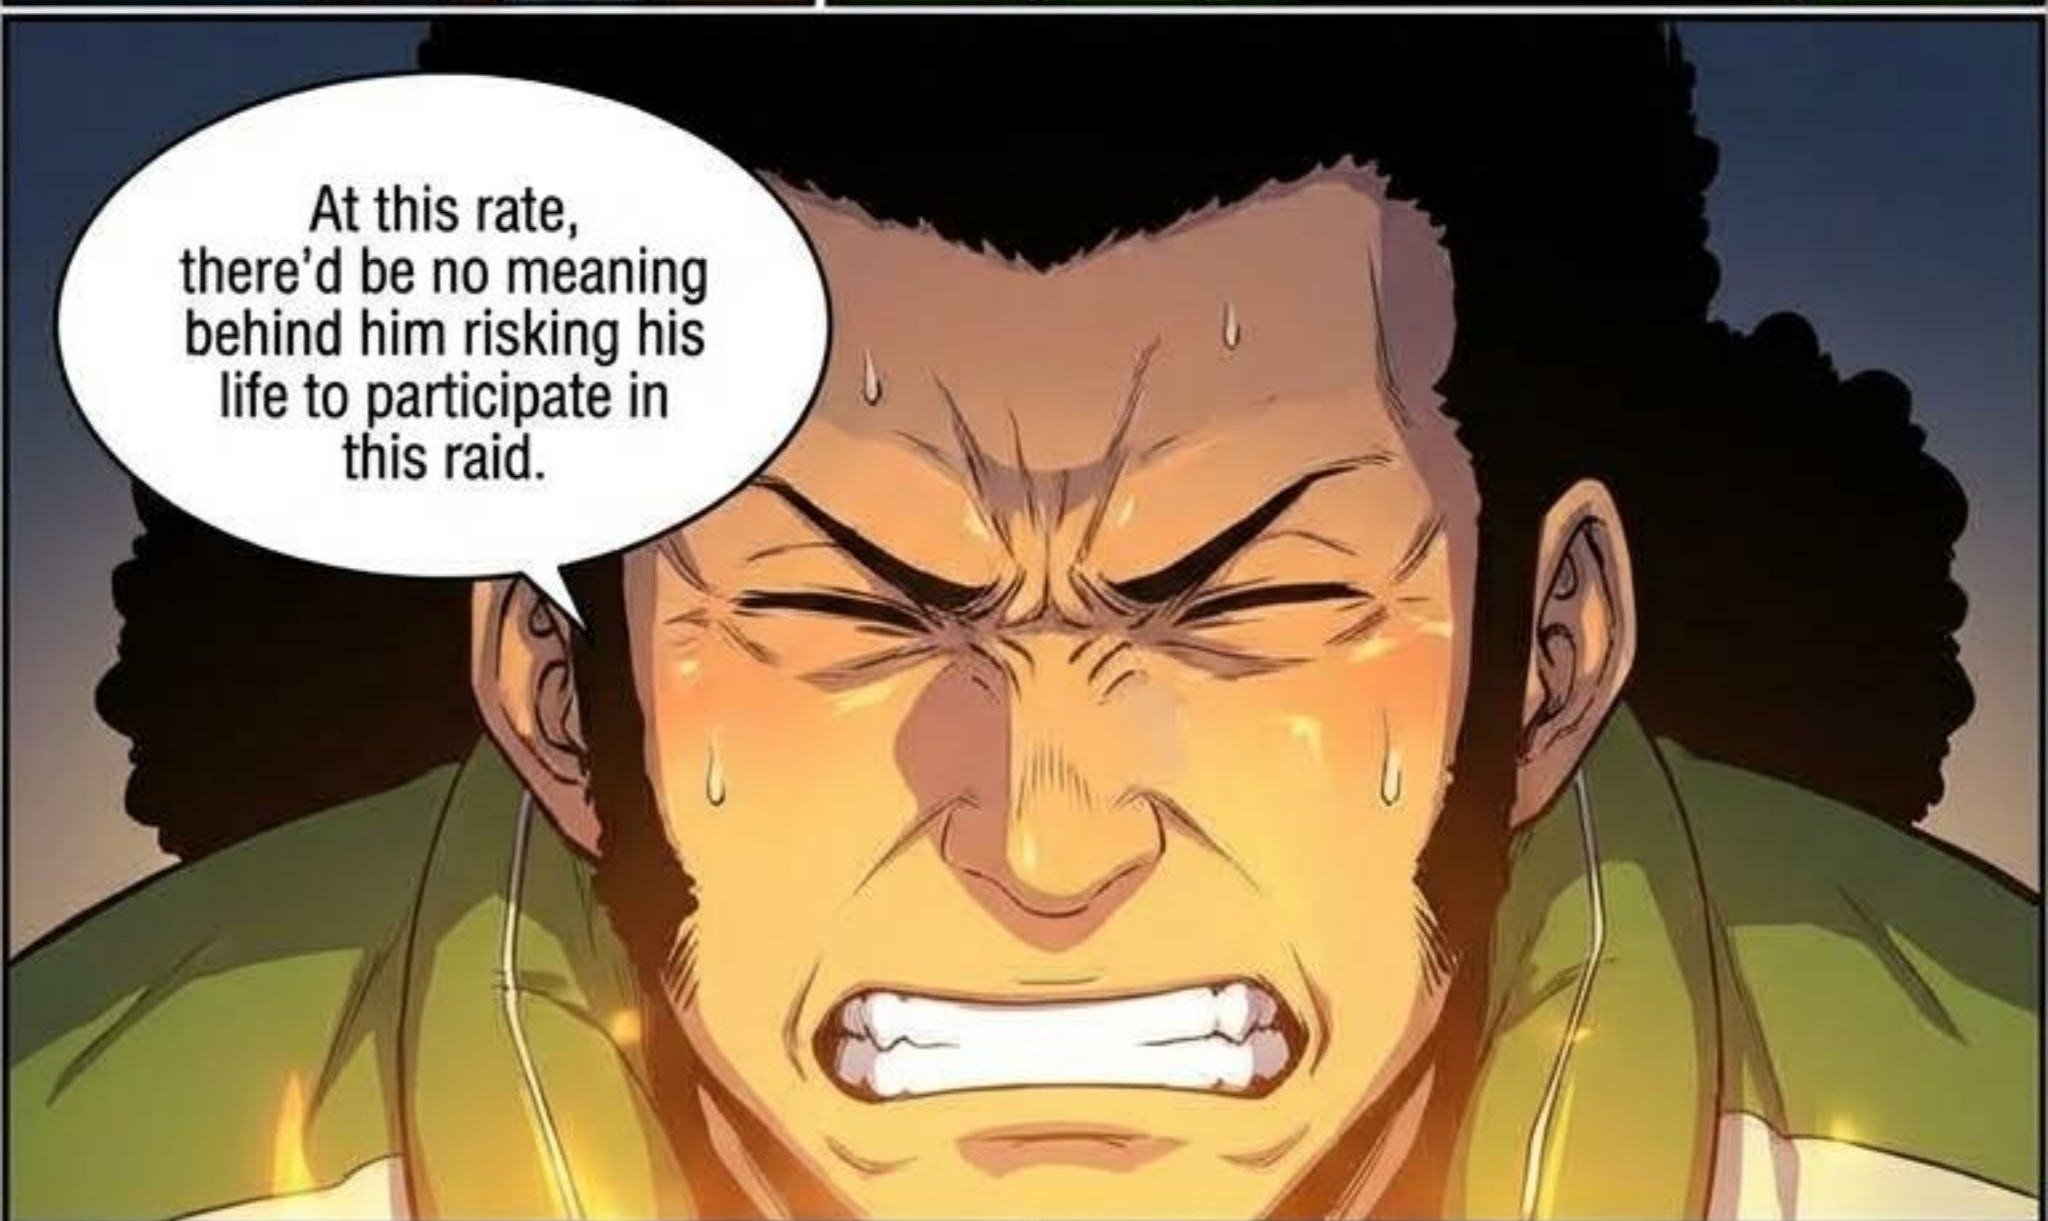

Now normally, we're supposed to relay this information back to the Association and wait for their decision first, but...

But, if we do that, we might end up handing over the task of killing the boss to other Hunters, and our takings for today's raid would decrease by a lot.

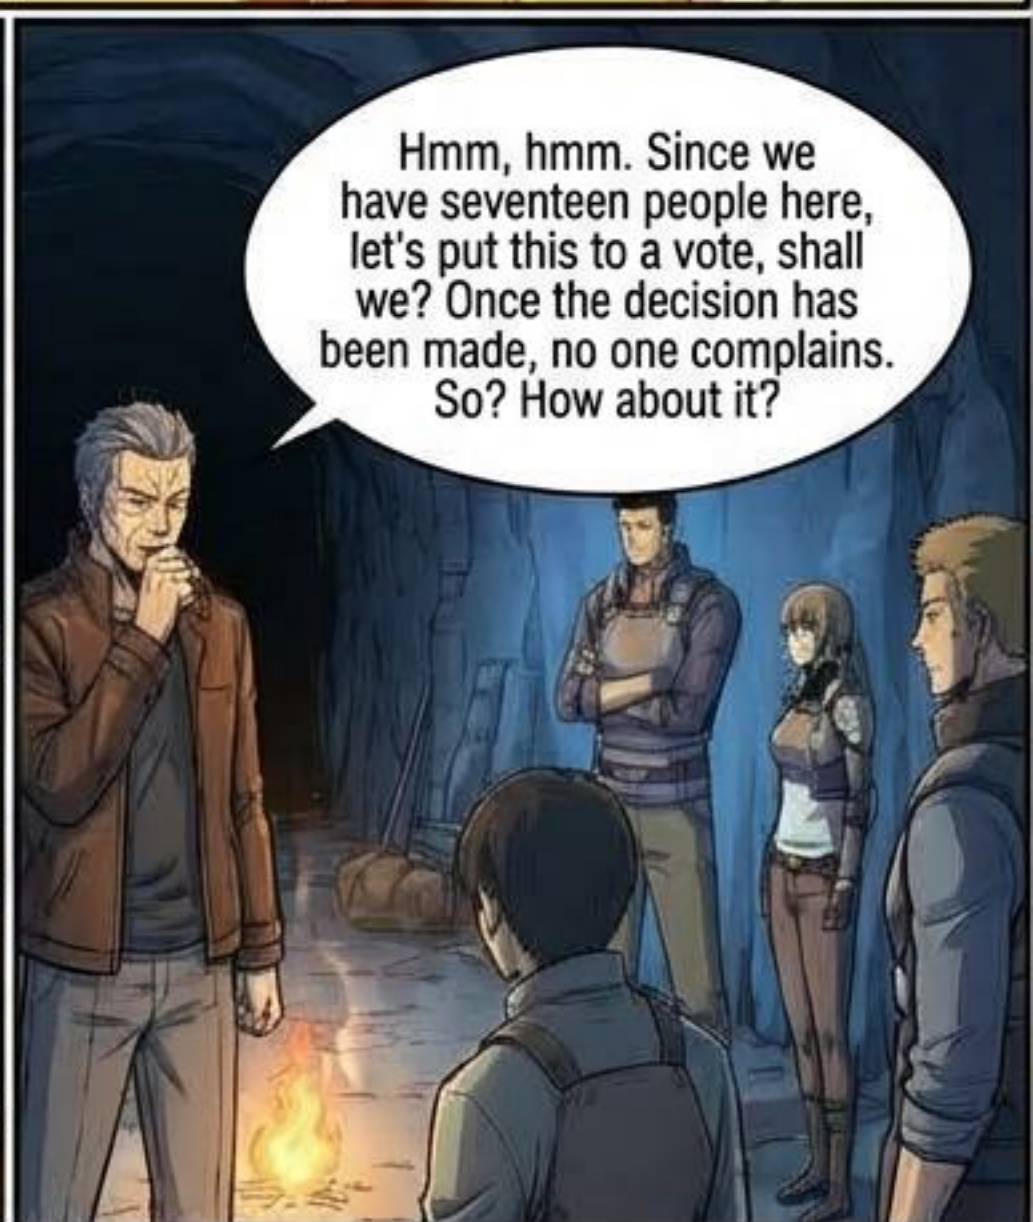

Postnatal care
eats up so much
cash nowadays,
you know...

At this rate,
there'd be no meaning
behind him risking his life to participate in this raid.

That's why I'd prefer if we took care
of the boss before leaving this dungeon... So, what do you all think?

Hmm, hmm. Since we have seventeen people here,
let's put this to a vote, shall we? Once the decision has been made, no one complains.
So? How about it?

I vote for going ahead.

Me too.

Count me in as well.

Let's go back.

I feel that it'd be better to wait for the Association's decision.

I'm sorry....

I vote to retreat.

And so, the vote count for 'go ahead' and 'retreat' was at 8:8. A deadlock.

And you, Mister Seong?

**Silence...*